

Ulf Kirchdorfer

Poet, Essayist, Educator, Editor, Photographer

Ulf Kirchdorfer grew up in Texas, the son of a Swedish mother and German father. He attended Trinity University and Texas Christian University. Currently he lives in Albany, Georgia, where he is Professor of English at Darton State College. He was selected a Carnegie Foundation U.S. Professor of the Year and has served as a Board of Regents Distinguished Professor. Ulf has published hundreds of poems and is the recipient of the Boswell Poetry Prize. He has written feature articles for the magazine Nordic Reach on subjects as varied as a Swedish chess grandmaster and the Swedish model and actress Maud Adams of James Bond movie fame.

Ulf is the author of Chewing Green Leaves, a collection of poetry, and Swede Among the Rednecks: The Language That Just Won't Stay Buried. His work has been published by Runner's World, Marathon & Beyond, and Canadian Running. With Jerry Bradley, he is co-editor of The Great American Wise Ass Poetry Anthology from Lamar University Literary Press.

Return to Angelina River Press